HIGH LEVEL MEETING

On Intercultural and Interreligious Dialogue

Institutions working closer together, jointly building bridges for mutual understanding in the Euro-Mediterranean region

22-23 July 2015, UfM Secretariat, Barcelona

BACKGROUND

In 1995 the Barcelona Process was initiated as an innovative alliance based on the principles of co-ownership, dialogue and co-operation, seeking to create a Mediterranean region of peace, security and shared prosperity.

The Barcelona declaration “reaffirms that the dialogue and respect between cultures and religions are a necessary precondition for bringing the peoples closer”. It highlights as one of its main principles the “respect for diversity and pluralism in societies, promotion of tolerance between different groups in society and the combat of manifestations of intolerance”

In 2004 the European Neighborhood Policy (ENP) was introduced to strengthen the European Union’s partnership with its neighboring countries, its Southern dimension being conducted through the Partnership for Democracy and shared prosperity as well as in the context of the UfM, which builds on the Barcelona declaration and the acquis of the Barcelona process and gathers all countries of the Euro-Mediterranean region based on the principle of co-ownership.

The current revision of the ENP includes the analysis of the approach to “religious dialogue and respect for cultural diversity” including “countering prejudice”.

In this context, and in view of the existing challenges in the region, intercultural and interreligious is perceived as a most potent tool for resolving disagreements, countering intolerance, extremism and radicalism and forging a culture of mutual respect and understanding. Interreligious and intercultural dialogue initiatives have a unique role in influencing communities and promoting diversity and peace.

In this regard, there is a perceived need to showcase best practices and discuss existing challenges with a view to encouraging positive and collaborative approaches to promote mutual understanding as well as promoting the establishment of a network of institutions and organizations.

In this regard, at the initiative of the Spanish Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Cooperation (Spanish MFA) and the Union for the Mediterranean (UfM), in partnership with the European Union, the Anna Lindh Foundation (ALF), the UN Alliance of Civilizations (UNAOC) and the King Abdullah Bin Abdulaziz International Centre for Inter-religious and Inter-cultural Dialogue (KAICIID), a High-level meeting on Intercultural and Interreligious Dialogue will take place on 22-23 July in Barcelona

This is the first meeting in a long-lasting, action-oriented process that is aimed at strengthening the capacity of organizations and fostering their cooperation in order to significantly contribute to countering discrimination and intolerance .

22 – 23TH JULY HIGH LEVEL MEETING

On the 22th and 23th of July 2015, at the initiative of the Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs and Cooperation (Spanish MFA), a High-level meeting on Inter-cultural and Inter-religious dialogue will be held at the headquarters of the Union for the Mediterranean in Barcelona.

This meeting falls within the framework of the 20th anniversary of the Barcelona Process, the ongoing consultation regarding the European Neighborhood Policy (ENP) review, and responds to the growing importance assigned to inter-cultural and inter-religious dialogue in the Euro-Mediterranean region as powerful tools for achieving stability and peace, fighting against intolerance and extremism while upholding values of peaceful coexistence.

This meeting represents a unique occasion to map and evaluate existing tools, instruments and institutions for inter-religious and intercultural dialogue; position inter-religious and intercultural dialogue as a central goal within a renewed multilateral policy approach to the Mediterranean; set out a roadmap ahead involving main institutions for a shared intercultural and inter-religious dialogue strategy.

OBJECTIVES

1. To raise awareness of the importance of interreligious and intercultural dialogue.
2. to map existing initiatives with a view to significantly scale-up the visibility and resourcing of identified high-impact successful programmes and tools for intercultural dialogue in the region;
3. to consolidate an alliance of partners seeking to leverage the impact of their initiatives drawing on existing synergies and complementarities between them.
4. To set up an action plan for future activities of the network, based on a common agenda and calendar of activities framed around the major initiatives planned over the coming years
