

Launch of “A Call for Peace, the End of Wars, and Respect for International Law” in Gernika, Spain

"Today, on the anniversary of the bombing of Gernika, we launch not a cry of despair, but a cry of hope — a call for peace. From Gernika to the world, may this call for peace resonate."

H.E. Mr. Miguel Ángel Moratinos,
Under-Secretary-General,
High Representative for UNAOC

In Gernika, Spain, UNAOC, in collaboration with Religions for Peace and the Municipality of Gernika, launched “A Call for Peace, the End of Wars, and Respect for International Law”, an initiative aiming to amplify a condemnation against war while fostering a message of peace and upholding respect for international law.

The two-day gathering featured interactive discussions and poignant interventions from political leaders, government officials, religious leaders, youth advocates, civil society representatives, and various stakeholders—all championing the cause of peace.

Participants gathered in Gernika, Spain, to launch “A Call for Peace, the End of Wars, and Respect for International Law” (26 April)

As a prelude to the official launch of the initiative, the first day opened with interactive roundtables exploring critical themes, including: “Interfaith Dialogue: the Role of Religious Leaders and Faith Actors in Fostering the Call for Peace, Mutual Respect and Understanding”, “From Grassroots Actions to Global Impact: Civil Society as a Catalyst for Sustainable Peace”, “Women at the Forefront: the Missing Piece in Advancing Peace and Security through Inclusion”, and “Youth Voices for Peace: Empowering a Generation of Changemakers”.

On the second day, participants commemorated the 88th anniversary of the historic bombing of Gernika, a city that has become a symbol of resilience and the enduring hope for peace. It was against this backdrop that the global call for peace was officially launched.

“Perhaps the best tribute to the bombing of Gernika would be a long silence of sorrow. But we have chosen instead to launch a cry — a cry of hope,” said Under-Secretary-General Miguel Ángel Moratinos, High Representative for UNAOC. “From Gernika to the world, may this cry for peace resonate.” (25–26 April)

UNAOC, in collaboration with Onuart Foundation, organized the 3rd edition of the Dialogue on “AI for One Humanity: Human-Centered Artificial Intelligence” at the Human Rights and Alliance of Civilizations Room of the Palais des Nations in Geneva, held on 22–23 April.

Opening the two-day event, the High Representative for UNAOC emphasized the need for ethical, inclusive, and human-centered AI governance, calling for stronger international cooperation. “Together, we can steer the trajectory of Artificial Intelligence towards a future where technology unites and empowers, rather than divides and excludes,” he said.

In a special address, H.E. Mr. José Manuel Albares Bueno, Minister of Foreign Affairs, European Union and Cooperation of Spain, underscored the importance of a multilateral governance framework for AI that places dignity and human rights at its core. “A framework built on inclusive platforms that leverage existing forums and enable the participation of all States and all stakeholders,” he said.

Other distinguished speakers at the opening session included Dr. José Luis Bonet Ferrer, President of Fundación Onuart; H.E. Mr. Burak Akçapar, Permanent Representative of Türkiye to the United Nations Office at Geneva; and Ms. Rima Al-Chikh, Director of Conference Management of the United Nations Office at Geneva on behalf of UNOG Director-General H.E. Ms. Tatiana Valovaya. H.E. Mr. José Luis Rodríguez Zapatero, Former Prime Minister of Spain, also delivered a prerecorded message.

The first day concluded with a film presentation and remarks by Mr. Che Fu, Founder and President of the World Public Economy Organization (WPEO) and Chairman of Sichuan East-West Cultural Exchange Promotion Association, who underscored the need for “AI inclusiveness among cultures in the world”.

The second day featured dynamic, cross-sectoral discussions on critical themes, including: “Shaping a More Inclusive Future with AI: How the Public and Private Sectors Can Accelerate Innovation and Enhance Impact” and “AI and Media in the Information Age: Combatting AI-Driven Disinformation, Misinformation, and Hate Speech”. Through these robust exchanges, one message emerged loud and clear: Artificial Intelligence must be a force for unity, not division. (22–23 April)

While in Marrakesh, the President of the EuroMed University of Fez, Professor Moustafa Bousmina, and the Chair of the Alliance of Civilizations at EuroMed University, Professor Abdelhak Azzouzi, met with the members of the High-level Advisory Council and made a presentation of the UNAOC Chair initiative.

The initiative, established at the EuroMed University of Fez following the 9th UNAOC Global Forum hosted by the Kingdom of Morocco in 2022, is dedicated to fostering intercultural dialogue, peace, and coexistence. It promotes academic programmes, including a Master's and Doctoral programmes in conflict management and civilizational dialogue.

A UNAOC delegation headed by Mr. Miguel Ángel Moratinos, Under-Secretary General and High Representative for UNAOC, participated in the fourth edition of the Antalya Diplomacy Forum (ADF25), held from 11-13 April 2025 in Antalya, Türkiye.

Convened by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Türkiye and held under the auspices of H.E. President Recep Tayyip Erdoğan, the Forum gathered heads of state and governments, foreign ministers, representatives of international and regional organizations, academics, civil society actors, and media professionals for in-depth discussions on global and regional developments.

With the overarching theme of “Reclaiming Diplomacy in a Fragmented World”, ADF25 focused on exploring multilateral solutions to current geopolitical challenges. Participants discussed innovative tools to reinvigorate international dialogue and underscored the growing need for inclusive and adaptive diplomatic frameworks to tackle challenges ranging from climate insecurity to technological disruption.

The High Representative participated in a thematic panel titled “What Role for the Global South in Effective Multilateralism?”, examining how the Global South contributes to strengthening multilateralism and shaping more effective global cooperation in a rapidly evolving international context. Moderated by Mr. Reagan Desvignes of TRT World Channel, the panel also featured H.E. Mulambo Haimbe, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Zambia; H.E. Thandi Moraka, Deputy Minister of International Relations of South Africa; Dr. Henry Huiyao Wang, President of the Center for China and Globalization; and Prof. Mehmet Akif Kireççi, Dean of the School of Political Science.

In his remarks, Mr. Moratinos underlined the importance of balanced global governance, stating: “Multilateralism is essential in our multipolar world, where every nation, especially in the Global South, must have a voice. Europe, too, bears a responsibility in building a more inclusive global system.”

On the margins of the Antalya Diplomacy Forum in Türkiye, the High Representative held a spate of high-level bilateral meetings, including:

UNAOC hosted a roundtable on “Countering Extremism and Radical Ideologies: A Multistakeholder Approach” at the United Nations headquarters in New York, featuring the “Egyptian-US Dialogue” initiative. Rev. Dr. Andrea Zaki, Head of the Egyptian-US Dialogue delegation and President of the Protestant Churches of Egypt and the Coptic Evangelical Organization for Social Services (CEOSS), presented the initiative. He was followed by distinguished panellists, H.E. Dr. Amb. Mahmoud Karem, Secretary General of the Human Rights Council and Vice President of the Egyptian National Council for Human Rights, and Rev. Dr. Karen Georgia Thompson, General Minister and President of the United Church of Christ. A general discussion followed, focusing on best practices for countering extremism and radical ideologies, as well as UN engagement with non-state stakeholders, including faith actors, civil society organizations, and Parliamentarians. (29 April)

The High Representative highlighted the role of UNAOC in promoting dialogue in the opening session of “A Dialogue for Unity and Peace: Remembering the Past, Shaping the Future”, an international conference organized by the Office of the President of the Republic of Macedonia and the International Center Alliance of Civilizations (ICAC) in Skopje, Macedonia. (7–10 April)

The High Representative has a courtesy meeting with the new Permanent Representative of Pakistan to the United Nations, H.E. Ambassador Asim Iftikhar Ahmad. The High Representative thanked the Ambassador's continued support for UNAOC. (4 April)

The first capacity-building workshop for recipients of the 9th Edition of the Intercultural Innovation Hub (IIH) took place in Cape Town, South Africa, from 6 to 11 April 2025.

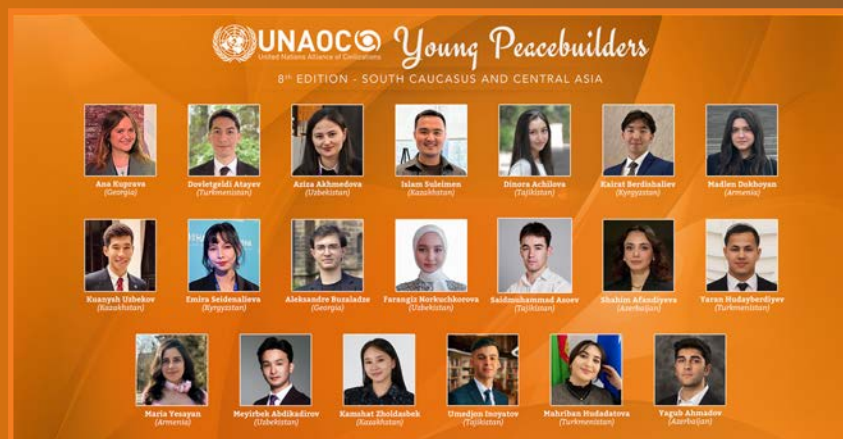

Hosted by UNAOC and BMW Group, with the support of Accenture, the workshop convened representatives of the 10 grassroots initiatives—from Austria, Botswana, Canada, India, Indonesia, Kenya, Nigeria, Peru, the United States of America, and Zambia—that were honoured at a ceremony held during the 10th UNAOC Global Forum in Cascais, Portugal, in November 2024. Participants engaged in various training sessions and site visits designed to bolster their capacities and enhance their impact.

Sessions focused on value propositions, communications, organizational challenges, and stakeholder engagement. The cohort also engaged with IIH programme alumni, such as PeaceGeeks CEO Jennifer Freeman, who shared valuable lessons on sustaining and scaling impact. They also visited Cape Town-based, 2022 IIH recipient, Oasis 'Reach For Your Dreams', which showcased how street football supports community reintegration

Additional visits to notable local institutions like the Desmond and Leah Tutu Legacy Foundation, ICLEI Africa, the Bo-Kaap Cultural Hub, the Scalabrini Centre, and the Western Cape Department of Cultural Affairs and Sport offered local perspectives on inclusion and social cohesion. (6–11 April)

UNAOC announced a new cohort of the Young Peacebuilders programme, focusing for the first time on the South Caucasus and Central Asia region. In its 8th edition, this flagship peace initiative has selected 20 young leaders from eight countries: Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, and Uzbekistan. Participants started their peacebuilding journey by actively engaging in a series of online modules. These will be followed by in-person workshops and culminate in a symposium where the participants will present their peace projects and lessons learned from the programme. Visit <https://www.unaoc.org/2025/04/new-cohort-young-peacebuilders-yyp8/> for more.

UNAOC, in collaboration with partners — UN Women, the Office of the Rule of Law and Security Institutions (OROLSI) within the Department of Peace Operations (DPO), the International Organization for Migration (IOM), and youth civil society organizations and constituencies, including the Gender Youth Caucus, UNCCD Youth Caucus, Global Youth Caucus on SDG16 - MGCY and the World Organization of the Scout Movement (WOSM) — co-organized a session at the ECOSOC Youth Forum titled, “Strengthening Institutions for Gender Equality and Youth Participation in Sustainable Development and Peacebuilding”. Youth experts presented evidence-based strategies and community-led approaches to ensure institutions are gender-responsive and inclusive of youth voices in peacebuilding and development efforts. (15 April)

UNAOC and Fundación Mujeres por África hosted the 25th virtual meeting and mediation training for participants of their joint Women's Alliance for Peace (WA4P) initiative. The session, which brought together 30 grassroots women leaders from Mali, the Central African Republic (CAR), and the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC), was opened by Ms. Caddy Adzuba, member of the WA4P Advisory Council, and followed by a general discussion. Participants then explored the principles and methodology of “Multi-track Diplomacy” and how mediators in conflict zones can effectively engage with a wide range of stakeholders, from grassroots actors to high-level decision-makers. Senior mediators also shared stories and experiences, drawing lessons from real-life conflict mitigation efforts involving local communities, religious leaders, and political figures. (2 April)

UNAOC and IOM are calling on young filmmakers worldwide to submit short videos for the 2025 edition of the PLURAL+ Youth Video Festival. Now in its 17th edition, PLURAL+ continues to highlight youth perspectives on key themes, such as migration and social inclusion, while introducing two special categories on “Combating Xenophobia and Discrimination” and “Promoting Responsible Narratives on Migration”

Young creators (up to age 25) are encouraged to use any genre or storytelling technique to inspire dialogue, challenge stereotypes, and promote inclusive societies. Selected films will be showcased at the PLURAL+ Annual Ceremony, scheduled at the end of this year and streamed on the PLURAL+ website. The deadline to submit is 15 June.
